Students Begin March In Ad Bldg.; Kirwan Refuses Student Demands

By DOTTIE BEAN
and JEANNIE LEEDOM
Kernel Staff Writers

More than 1,000 students and faculty began marching single file through the Administration Building shortly before noon today after Dr. A. D. Kirwan, interim president, refused to address the gathering or reconsider their demands.

According to Guy Mendes, one of five student representatives who met with the president, "Dr. Kirwan said, 'The students have concerned themselves with something they should not be concerned with.'"

Linda Bailey, another representative, said Dr. Kirwan would not side with the "passionate demands of an ad hoc student group."

The students, who had started to gather before 10 a.m., began to march through the front door of the building, turn to their left, march up the steps to a higher floor, cross that floor, march down the right-hand steps and back out the front door again.

The students apparently decided to continue this process until their demands are met.

The five-member committee addressed the crowd at 10:30 before going inside the Administration Building to discuss their demands—that the four students suspended Monday by the Appeals Board be reinstated immediately.

The group did not get to meet with Dr. Kirwan until 11 a.m., however, because Dr. Kirwan reportedly was holding a cabinet meeting.

"Predecided"

Thom Pat Juul was the first of the five-man committee to leave the meeting with Dr. Kirwan. He left the building about 11:10, but did not address the crowd. He later explained that it was obvious Dr. Kirwan had "predecided" before students "opened their mouths."

The four students, who have become a symbol for the rallies, were arrested April 13 in three early morning drug raids. Five students were suspended by Acting Vice President for Student Affairs Dr. Stuart Forth, but the Appeals Board upheld the suspensions of only four of these students.

In addressing the group this morning, Dr. Forth said, "When a student comes here he agrees to abide by the rules of the University. We don't change those rules in the middle of the game."

"Our (the administration's) action is not only legal, but it is for the total health and well-being of the whole University."

Dean of Students Jack Hall was the only other administrator to address the group. He answered questions about the administration's attitudes toward the proposed march.

The administration obviously was generally cold to the idea, but willing to tolerate an orderly march through the building.

Futrell Opposes

Newly elected president of Student Government Tim Futrell told the group that "walking through the building will not get anything accomplished."

"Go through the proper channels because walking through the building is obstructing the business of the administration."

Dr. Thomas Olszewski, philosophy, told the group earlier that the Student Affairs Committee of the University Senate last night supported the students' demand for reinstatement and a change in the Student Code.

There seemed to be internal conflict in the students' ranks today as to the exact action to take if Dr. Kirwan refused the demands. The dissension appeared even in the ranks of the five-member committee.

In another development, an ad hoc Committee for the Preservation of Student Rights formed in opposition to the student group.

"Protect your rights. Defend the Student Code against those who would render it useless and allow the University to degenerate into a sanctuary for malcontents and social undesirables," the leaflet being handed out near the Administration Building reads.

The original ad hoc student committee was formed Wednesday night at a mass rally at the Student Center. About 1,000 students attended.

Today's action came after repeated efforts Thursday to have the students' demands met.

At the culmination of Thursday's events, some 3,000 students rallied at the Complex Commons to show mounting strength in the face of administrative and University Senate inaction.

Forth On The Defense

The Complex rally, actually the conclusion of a march from the Student Center Grille, focused on tactics for today's meeting in front of the Administration Building. Students across campus joined the march to the Complex and the mass rally, which ended about 11 p.m.

Thursday's activities began at 3 p.m. with the meeting of the five-member student committee, appointed after Wednesday night's organization meeting of the ad hoc student group, with interim President A. D. Kirwan in the Administration Building.

Students began forming in front of the Administration Building about 3:15 in anticipation of Dr. Kirwan's reaction to the demand that the four students suspended on drug charges be reinstated. By 3:30, when the student committee returned from the meeting with Dr. Kirwan, about 2,000 students and faculty were present.

Kirwan Releases Statement

In a prepared statement, read to the group by Guy Mendes, one of the five committeemen, Dr. Kirwan said that while he was "acutely aware of student interest and concern," he "could find no basis for reversing the action of suspension taken by the Acting Vice President (for Student Affairs, Dr. Stuart Forth) and recommended by the Appeals Board."

"I shall be more than willing to work with you on improving University regulations and know that the faculty and administration are equally willing to do so," the statement read.

Student reaction to Dr. Kirwan's statement was negative.

The five members of the committee, who, in addition to Mendes, are Linda Bailey, Thom Pat Juul, Mike Farmer and Geoffrey Pope, then led the students to the Law Building, where the University Senate was meeting.

(Juul is titular leader of Students for Action and Responsibility and present Student Government representative. Miss Bailey is a retiring representative. Farmer is former student ombudsman. Pope is leader of CARSA and Mendes is managing editor of the Kernel.)

Confrontation

The only confrontation between marchers and onlookers occurred when the group arrived at the Law Building. About 75 law students, standing on the building porch, began heckling the demonstrators.

Sheryl Snyder, student member of the University Senate, introduced the proposed change in the Student Code drawn up at the ad hoc student meeting Wednesday night after the senate voted to waive most of the agenda. The meeting was called specially to consider the proposed Bill of Rights, but the topic was never discussed.

After debating the proposal for about one and a half hours, the senate referred it to the Student Affairs Committee and asked that the committee report back to the senate for action within a week. Vote was 89 to 58.

Dr. Michael Adelstein, chairman of the Student Affairs Committee, said he did not think any change should be made in the code at this time because of the complexity of the issue, adding that "we sympathize with the students and would recommend that the senate ask for the reinstatement of the four students."

Resolution Fails

Dr. Harry Bohannon, dean of the College of Dentistry, introduced into the senate a resolution recommending that the students be reinstated immediately.

The resolution failed after a voice vote. It apparently was the feeling of the senate that passing the resolution would be a contradiction of its decision not to change the Student Code at that time. The provisions of the code are therefore still in effect, and Dr. Forth acted under those provisions, some senators argued.

On To Maxwell

'Reinstatement Now:' Students Decide Tactics

The senate did vote to have its secretary remind the professors of the four students that University regulations require that the students should receive incompletes rather than E's in the courses.

Before the motion on incompletes had been voted on, the five-member student committee left the over-crowded Law College courtroom to meet with the students, still numbering about 600, in the amphitheater behind Memorial Hall.

Move To Maxwell

Discussion at the amphitheater centered around what to do next. It was decided that Mendes and Juul would pursue, with a lawyer, the possibility of obtaining a restraining order against the University, thus hopefully permitting the temporary reinstatement of the students.

A motion was made for a boycott of classes today, but it was decided that direct action should be taken by marching to Maxwell Place, where Dr. Kirwan was entertaining Omicron Delta Kappa members.

About 400 students completed the march and gathered in front of the covered walkway from the house, now used for formal entertaining by the Kirwans.

Trespassing

It was first reported that Dr. Kirwan would address the group, but Jack Hall, dean of students, later reported that Dr. Kirwan did not want to leave his guests. He also said Dr. Kirwan had nothing to say to the students other than the statement he wrote and which Mendes had read earlier in the day in front of the Administration Building.

Dean Hall told the students they were trespassing and, although no formal statement had been issued, that they should leave the home. The students then decided to meet at the Student Center at 8 p.m. for further discussion.

Dr. Thomas Olschewsky, philosophy, Dr. E. M. Hammaker, chemistry, and Dr. Richard Hanau, physics, members of the Student Affairs Committee of the senate, addressed the group, explaining the senate action and informing them of a 4 p.m. open meeting today in the Student Center with the committee.

Revisions Unacceptable

Dr. Hammaker told the students that their proposed revision of the Student Code probably would not be accepted by the committee as written. "I don't think we can say right now what they (the senators) would accept."

The whole group quickly moved into a discussion of tactics to be used if Dr. Kirwan does not reinstate the students today.

Fanner outlined the following proposals: wait until the senate meets at 7 p.m. April 28 to hear the Student Affairs Committee report, hold a silent vigil starting Thursday night in front of the Administration Building and continuing until the students are reinstated, move into the Administration Building in a continuous march through the halls, hold a peaceful sit-in in the Administration Building and take the building and evict the administrators.

There was clear sentiment in favor of at least some version of the last three proposals.

Darrell Harrison said, "We've learned in the last 24 hours why people take over administration buildings. We've been moderate. We've asked for something which I do not feel is unreasonable."

'More Dynamic'

"We've tried the moderate way," Juul said. "We've tried it all year long. Today's persuasive tactics haven't worked. It is time we thought of something a little more dynamic."

Don Pratt, former student, warned about the four students. "They are our symbols," he said, "But they are also human beings."

A proposal was then made that the meeting be moved to the complex to involve more students in the discussion. A march past the women's doms, Haggins and Donovan halls and to the complex was proposed.

The first uniformed policemen of the day made their appearance at the Complex, where the only opposition to the meeting seemed to come from the football dom.

The discussion of tactics was again brought before the group, and it was decided to postpone decision on the matter until the decision of Dr. Kirwan is known.

"If they know what we are going to do they will be prepared for us," Dave Blair said.

The decision was made to appear in mass before the Administration Building at 9 a.m. today and then march around campus in an effort to enlist more students in the cause.

A. Crystal-clear absence of any color in the body of a diamond is considered the finest quality. This is interior color, not the flashes of rainbow colors called "fire." Value falls as a tinge of yellow deepens the diamond in body color. ## Dr. Kirwan . . .

What the hell do you say now?

It is Thursday night. Nothing has been accomplished except that every move has gained new support. The administration doesn't seem to know what is really happening. We're sure we don't know what will be happening 24 hours from now.

We're really kind of interested in not guessing.

Who would have guessed the meeting Wednesday night would be so well attended. A thousand students on this campus is quite an accomplishment, even for student rights. Positive action was planned. There was hope—maybe the people on top would see the light.

They didn't. Dr. Kirwan's announcement—in the form of a mimeographed release—definitely sickened the 2,000 students in front of the Administration Building Thursday. Who would have believed anyone in the year of revolution 1969 would dare such an insult? "I'm not going to listen to you because I'm not going to listen to you," he said. "I don't see any reason to listen to you," he hinted. The whole world is roses and mint juleps.

The law students were worse, but we could bear them. They have no power—yet. The action of the Senate stank. "We aren't going to act without our traditional decade for deliberation and the usual committee hearings," they said.

Besides that, Dr. Forth is our friend.

And the Maxwell Place thing. "Dr. Kirwan will be out in a few minutes, children," ran the first report. "Dr. Kirwan is entertaining and doesn't want to be interrupted," ran the second. "Go home," ran the third.

And after all, what is at stake? Only the personal lives of four students. Tuition is inconsequential. Let them pay it. What does it matter if they miss the classes? We don't really care. Scat. Get back in your hole. Play student some more. Forget that you're a human being. Nasty. Nasty.

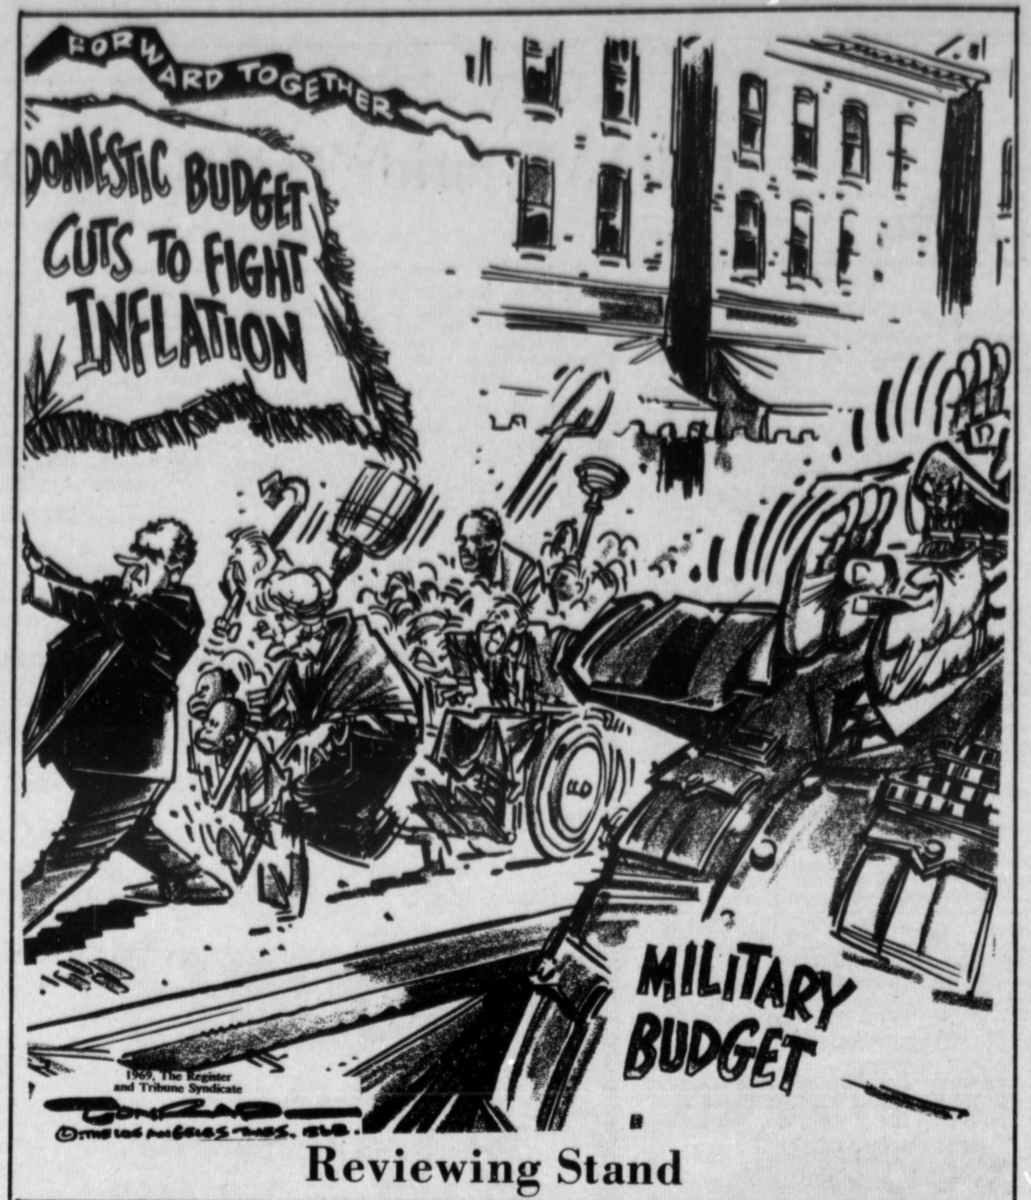

What the hell is going to happen next, Dr. Kirwan?

Dillard Support

The possible loss of sponsorship for Dillard House, a progressive experiment in living, should be cause for alarm within the University community.

Dillard House, by its relatively unstructured living arrangements, including cooperative, coeducational and interracial features, is in the best spirit of higher education. It represents a search for new and better ways of living and encourages intellectual stimulation on a day-to-day basis.

Such an experiment should not be allowed to die just for lack of a sponsoring agency. Support must be found somewhere—from the University itself as a last resort.

Kernel Forum: the readers write

Antistudent City

To the Editor of the Kernel:

Re: editorial in April 16th evening edition of The Lexington Leader entitled "UK Moves to Protect the Public."

The student body has been grossly insulted by this blatant slap in the face from the "good citizens" of Lexington, as represented by their editorialist. No matter whether Greek, leftist or indifferent, we have once again been deemed as less than citizens. An obvious and disgraceful violation of student rights as supposedly guaranteed in the Student Code has been highly praised by the editor. Five students, on the basis of unproven charges alone, were suspended. The University, or more specifically, Dr. Stuart Forth, has taken the powers of judge, jury and executioner over these students—and found them guilty.

However, the good citizens are not satisfied with merely knowing action has been taken. They would deny the students even the protection of anonymity. The writer feels that the Lexington public should be told the names of the offending degenerates, although why he feels this is necessary is never made quite clear. In fact, it is never made clear why the city of Lexington, complete with Chief Hale and God on their side, feels it needs to be "protected" from five young people.

An equally alarming aspect of the article, aside from praising students' rights violations, is evident in the insidious jabs at the lack of screening of UK students. The editorialist feels that the students' actions were a result of irresponsible upbringing and suggests that UK should move to admit only those students with "responsible" parents. To the minds of the Leader's writers and subscribers, responsible can be equated with conservative or, even better, Southern conservative. From this statement and a previous news report of the drug bust, which went to obvious trouble to point out that most of those arrested were out-of-staters from

New York, Maryland or Illinois, it would seem that the only people Lexington would really like to see on this campus are conservative Kentuckians.

I think this article also says something quite alarming about Lexington's value system, as far as crime goes. Here we have quick apprehension and punishment of, at worst, trouble-some law breakers highly praised. However, I cannot recall reading an editorial statement one way or the other concerning Lexington's healthy crime rate, especially in the area of crimes of violence such as murder. I wonder how many people are aware that, in the month of March, Lexington had more murders than the metropolis of Toronto, Ontario, has had in the past three years? But the city's policemen seem to feel that the law prohibiting the use of marijuana is more important than that prohibiting murder. Or maybe it gives them a feeling of with-it importance or regained youth to be able to dress up as hippies, infiltrate the ranks and then play super-cool undercover agent by turning the "lousy bums" in. But I'm afraid this system of priorities is a bit alien to me: I can't see putting a funny cigarette ahead of a human life. This system again seems to be connected with the opinion of students—crime seems to be permissible as long as committed by a Lexingtonian, but let an outsider—and UK students are aliens—break a law and he's public enemy No. 1.

To conclude, this article reeks of a prejudice almost approaching racism against UK students, especially those who do not enthusiastically support Lexington's idea of what a student should be. This, basically, is that we should be seen seldom and heard never, and God forbid that we should ever have an opinion on anything. The main question is: Why do Lexingtonians feel so negatively toward students? We certainly are not a drain on the city's economy, and we don't go around destroying things. Perhaps they are afraid. Of a lot of things not even related to the university. Like race, or taxes or inflation. Or open minds. Whatever it is, we make convenient scapegoats because we have little real recourse. I think it should be made quite clear, however, that we neither deserve nor appreciate this constant criticism and are tired of being used as Lexington's collective whipping boy.

Letter To Nunn

The following letter from the Students for a Democratic Society at the University of Kentucky has been forwarded to the Honorable Louie B. Nunn. We think its purpose and contents will be of interest to students in the state and fellow Kentuckians.

Honorable Louie B. Nunn
Governor's Office
Frankfort, Kentucky

Dear Sir:

From the 30th of April through the 3rd of May you and approximately 30 other Republican governors from various states will be using our city of Lexington, Kentucky, for your conference. You will frequently be the focus of attention on the national news media as representing all of the people of Kentucky and persons of the other states. Insofar as you, Gov. Nunn, occupy the position of greatest authority in Kentucky, your clear understanding of positions on public issues taken by organized groups is imperative.

The Students for a Democratic Society at the University of Kentucky invites you to participate with us in an open dialogue which will be attended by the several political groups on campus and other interested people. SDS probably holds extremely different political views than the governors. However, we feel your meeting with us will make possible the opportunity of first hand airing of views which could be mutually beneficial.

We realize that you will be rather busy during your four-day stay here. Because of this we are not setting up a definite time and place for the open dialogue. We tentatively plan to hold the event in the Student Center on the afternoon of May 2nd. Please inform us of the acceptability of the above mentioned meeting.

Greekies

The SG elections of April 9 were crooked. Scott Richmond and Thom Juul and you and I all know that.

Many people saw Greekies go up to other Greekies with Greekie sheets. Lots of us saw the Greekies doing this as ballots were being marked. Some poll workers handed out Greekie sheets with the ballots.

Many Greekies just copied the names off the little yellow paper. ID's were fooled around with and rules concerning their use were unclear. Candidates of all persuasions electioneered within 50 feet of the polls.

The unused ballots were fooled around with too, perhaps by those poll workers who earlier had sported "Futrell-Gwinn" buttons along with their pretty Greekie pins.

The Greeks were the perpetrators of most of the crookedness, and, in upholding the results of this election, the J-Board has done students a great disservice. I'm not splitting hairs; the sweep of the Dynamic Executioners and their Fleet Administrators was due largely to tactics that even Mayor Daley could be proud of.

Unless a standard code is established for these elections, I would advise that Greekie pins be used for voting identification and that ballot boxes be guarded by pledges and clearly marked, "Property of the IFC."

Unrest Causing Pres. Shortage

WASHINGTON (AP)—The pressures of running a university and dealing with campus unrest are causing college presidents to leave their jobs, says the Chronicle of Higher Education.

Some 70 universities and four-year colleges are looking for chief executives, says the Chronicle in its current edition.

Charles G. Dobbins, executive secretary of the American Council on Education, said this month that the current adversarial relationship between students, faculty and administrators could result in a "massive loss of experienced leadership" in higher education.

SG Endorses Proposed Student Code Revisions

By KATHY ARNOLD
Kernel Staff Writer

Strength was given to the ad hoc student committee proposal for revision of the Student Code when the Student Government Assembly adopted a resolution endorsing that action last night.

The resolution met no opposition in the assembly.

Thom Pat Juul, who introduced the resolution, said, "The endorsement of the Student Government . . . would add more impetus to get this (proposal) through" and possibly help to "finally establish student rights at this university."

The new representatives who were elected on April 9 were sworn in by outgoing President Wally Bryan. Swearing in of the new president and vice president, Tim Futrell and Jim Gwinn respectively, will take place at 4 p.m. today in the Administration Building.

After a somewhat heated discussion, Jerry Legere was elected to succeed Steve Bright as Speaker of the Assembly.

This action met opposition from Juul, who suggested election of the speaker be held off until after the dorm representatives are elected in the fall. He suggested that an acting speaker be chosen to serve until that time.

"All representatives should be able to speak out on who should be Speaker of the Assembly," he said, adding that during the summer the acting speaker would have a chance to show "he is outstanding" if he desires to remain as speaker after the fall elections.

Correction

An editorial entitled "Irresponsibility," which appeared in Thursday's Kernel, contained an incorrect statement.

The editorial stated that the Judicial Board voted 5-to-4 Tuesday to validate the recent SG assembly election. This was an error in communication—we actually do not know what the exact vote was. Our apologies . . .

Blues Have Offensive Edge

Defense Expected To Be Scrimmage Strength

The Blue team will probably have the offensive edge in Saturday's Blue-White spring scrimmage, but don't be surprised if the game turns out to be a fairly tight defensive struggle.

The defense has had the best of it in recent scrimmages, which coach John Ray feels is caused by the amount of times they've faced each other.

But he said the squads are fairly well split, including the coaching staff. He said most of the players have been placed in more or less permanent positions.

The annual scrimmage, part of the LKD weekend festivities, will begin at 8 p.m. at Stoll Field. All UK students will be admitted free upon presentation of ID cards.

Sophomore Bernie Scruggs and junior Stan Forston will share the quarterbacking responsibilities for the Blues. Forston will be in action for the first time in two weeks since suffering a shoulder injury.

Joining them will be end Phil Thompson, halfbacks Joe Jacobs, Roger Gann and Dave Bair. On the defensive side will be David Roller and Doyle King. Wilbur Hackett will be at a linebacker spot and Dave Hunter and Paul Martin will be the defensive backs.

The White team will have sophomores Hugh Bland, Garrett Scott and Steve Tingle at the signal-calling post.

The White team will have Vic King at split end and Raynard Makin at tight end. Jack Matthews will be at left halfback and Dick Beard will be the fullback. Jim Mitchell, switched from offense to defense, will be a line-backer.

Earlier in the day, dedication services will be held at the UK Sports Center, which will be designated Bernie A. Shively Sports Center in memory of the late Wildcat athletic director.
